DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to Amendment filed August 1, 2006. Claims 125 and 127 have been amended as requested by the applicant.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see Amendment, filed August 1, 2006, with respect to claims 125 and 127 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection of claims 125-128 has been withdrawn. Applicant amended claims as suggested by the examiner to overcome the prior art of record.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 125-128 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Regarding claims 125 and 127, the prior art of record fails to teach or suggest displaying an image through the use of an illumination subsystem producing a primary beam of light having a predetermined range of wavelengths, randomly changing orientations of a chosen component of electric field vectors and substantially uniform flux intensity across the initial beam of light; and a modulation subsystem including converting the randomly changing orientations into substantially the same predetermined orientation of a chosen component of electric field vectors, separating the primary beam into two or more primary color beams, each having the same predetermined orientation of electric field vectors, providing two or more altering means for changing the predetermined orientation of electric field vectors; absorbing a portion of electromagnetic energy of at least one of the two or more primary color beams of light at a beam stop, wherein the portion being absorbed is dependent upon the wavelength of the at least one beam; altering the selected predetermined orientation of the electric field vectors of a plurality of portions of each of the separate primary color beams by passing the beams through a respective one of a plurality of altering means in a single direction whereby the selected predetermined orientation of electric field vectors is altered in response to stimulus means by applying a signal means to the stimulus means in a predetermined manner as each of the separate primary color beams pass through the respective one of the altering means, combining more than two altered separate primary color beams into a single collinear beam of light without substantially changing the altered predetermined orientation of the electric field vectors, resolving the single collinear beam of light a first resolved beam having a substantially first selected predetermined orientation of electric field vectors and a second resolved beam of light having electric field vectors whereby the first and second selected predetermined electric field vectors are different from one another, providing a projection subsystem and passing at least one of the resolved beams thereto and forming a first light path from the illumination subsystem to the altering means in which the first light path is equal for all altering means and forming a second light path from each of the altering means to the projection subsystem in which the second light path is equal for all altering means.

Claims 126 and 128 depend from claims 125 and 127 respectively and are allowable for the same reasons.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
